JIFIN • Offprint

Collateral Chains and the Geography of Dollar Credit

Elena Vartanian, Marcus Oyelaran, Priya Raghunathan

Abstract. We assemble a novel panel of 41 jurisdictions to trace how collateral reuse reshapes the geography of dollar-denominated credit. Rehypothecation intensity predicts a 14 percent compression in cross-border spreads, but only where central-bank swap access is credible.

This offprint is provided for demonstration. DOI and citation metadata are held in the journal record.